First Two Guys and a Truck® Franchise in Virginia Awarded to “One of the Guys” Prince William County Territory Purchased By Current Company Executive

(Sterling, Virginia) – Donald Combs is a five-year employee of moving and storage firm Two Guys and a Truck®, most recently serving as Vice President of Sales. His title is changing, however ... to franchise owner! Two Guys and a Truck CEO David Underwood today announced that Combs is the new owner of the company’s first Virginia franchise.

Combs’ new franchise encompasses all of Prince William County and is initially being managed from Two Guys and a Truck’s headquarters in Sterling.

“I’m excited to put my experience to work growing this territory,” said Combs, who has spent much of his adult life in the moving and storage business. “My operation is already up and running, and we’re ready to serve Prince William County’s moving needs professionally and promptly.”

Combs says his primary goals will be to serve existing Two Guys and a Truck customers in Prince William, and also to grow the business in the county.

“I’m thrilled that Don is purchasing our Prince William County franchise,” said Underwood. “During Don’s years with Two Guys and a Truck, the company has grown significantly, in no small part due to his hard work. I’m certain he’ll be an excellent business owner. This move shows our commitment to ‘creating opportunity’ for anyone who can demonstrate ability and a desire to succeed.”

Combs is the second entrepreneur to purchase a Two Guys and a Truck franchise. The first franchise is located in Gaithersburg, Maryland. The 20-year-old company recently announced plans to sell exclusive Two Guys and a Truck® franchise territories all over Virginia, Maryland, and Washington D.C. There currently are 20 territories available in Maryland and D.C., and another 15 in Virginia.
